To Future College Head Coach of Nolan Heald (2020 Grad / CF / LHP),

Nolan Heald plays on my 2019 Team Akadema summer travel team playing 18 Open at colleges.

Nolan's character is one of a kind. He is a young man of a few words. Those few words are yes Coach. He is a very coachable kid and always makes adjustments after talked to. Nolan is a team player and willing to sacrifice for the team. He will lay out and sacrifice his body for a ball or he will lay down a bunt to move runners and sacrifice his AB.

Nolan has many defensive capabilities that separate him from other players. His speed in the outfield leaves very little room for the hitter. He covers a lot of ground. Arm strength is average but has room for growth. With Nolan's dedication to the game there's not a doubt that he will have it strengthened by next season. His fielding percentage is .965 in the last 15 games.

Offensively Nolan is a great asset. He is a top 3 hitter. His BP is .378 with a .439 OBP. Nolan is usually a first pitch hitter. Smart with situation and reads the field well. If corners are deep, he doesn't hesitate to lay a bunt. When on the bases he has brilliant speed. Reads the pitchers and gets good leads. With 20 SB's he leads the team. If there's an inch or two to take on the bases, he's the one that will take it.

Overall Nolan is a good asset to our team. I also believe he would be a good asset to any team willing to take the time and chance to look at him. With his attitude and skills, Nolan would fit with any program.

Please contact me directly below to discuss anything further on Nolan Heald.

Sincerely,

Randy Newton
